Anna Susanna Woof shows new text works and two paintings.

Woof's text works are produced through a process of writing and formatting language into text blocks/shapes.

The texts pronounce formal propositions or descriptions of situations and positions, or the externalisation of personal psychological dilemmas. The language is often abstracted or obscured through formal constructions and formatting/design, so that, whilst familiar, the resulting image becomes indeterminable: somewhere in-between a menu, script or concrete poem.

Alongside the text works, Woof has been making an ongoing series of paintings since 2014. These paintings are produced in a barn near her rural family home in Lancashire and elude to this landscape in their organic colouration/brushwork. This is the first showing of the series.

Anna Susanna Woof is based in Berlin and Lancashire.
